Jack Novak Joins First Virginia Community Bank

FAIRFAX, Va. - Jack Novak joined First Virginia Community Bank (FVCbank) on September 6 as Executive Vice President. Novak, who resigned effective August 31, as president and CEO of Millennium Bank, will work in business development and lending for FVCbank.

"We are very pleased to have Jack Novak join our lending team," says FVCbank Chairman and CEO David W. Pijor. "Novak spent six years helping to rebuild Millennium Bank, despite significant obstacles. We are impressed with him as a person and a banker with a successful track record of 30 years in the industry."

Novak began his banking career at Equitable Bank, spent ten years at Provident Bank, where he served as Executive Vice President, and at Susquehanna Bank. His background includes operations, marketing, retail and commercial lending.

About First Virginia Community Bank

First Virginia Community Bank (FVCbank) is a state chartered bank, headquartered in Fairfax, Virginia. The bank's corporate offices and main office branch are located at 11325 Random Hills Road in Fairfax. In early 2007, FVCbank raised $23 million in capital and completed one of the fastest new bank openings in just 11 months. In the fall of 2010, FVCbank raised another $6.3 million in capital for expansion in a private stock offering. The stock sold at a price of 1.59 book value. FVCbank opened its second branch, located at 7900 Sudley Road, Manassas, in July 2008, and its third branch, located at 11260 Roger Bacon Drive, Reston, in June 2011. On August 10, 2011, FVCbank launched a third private stock offering to raise $3 to $5 million for future growth.
